

Dear all,

The King's Student Law Review are pleased to announce the publication of a joint, special edition of our journal under the overarching theme of 'Law and War'. This edition is a joint project with Strife, the main peer-reviewed academic journal at the Department of War Studies. As of today, we will now be accepting submissions for this joint edition.

Submissions must be relevant to the subjects that relate to the intersection between 'Law and War'. This overarching theme encompasses a vast range of topics such as challenging the effectiveness of "Jus in bello" in light of the war on terror, "rogue states", the historical origins of the laws of conventional warfare, and the legality of Private Military Companies and the effectiveness of Nuclear Arms Control and Non-Proliferation agreements and treaties.

All articles must be between 4,000 and 6,000 words in length. Articles must comply with Oxford Referencing style (and by extension OSCOLA for legal references and case notes). A simplified version of this referencing style has been included in the Submission guidelines attached below.

If you are interested in submitting an article for this exciting joint publication, please send an abstract, as well as the required information (outlined below) to the following email address: kslr.strife.jointedition@gmail.com

Required Information

- Title of the article, set in bold, ranged left and unjustified.
- Name of the author or authors directly below the title, followed by institution affiliation, if applicable.
- Five or six keywords.
- Abstract of around 350 words

We will be accepting abstracts until Monday, the 23rd April 2018.

We look forward to receiving your submissions.

Best,

The King's Student Law Review
